Original Copy of the Declaration of Independence Found at Flea Market

TOM BROKAW, anchor:

It was at a Pennsylvania flea market. A man was struck by an old picture frame, so he picked it up for $4. He took it home, got rid of the frame, but the rest is history. Hidden behind the picture, an original copy of the Declaration of Independence, one of only 24 known to exist. It will be auctioned off in June at Sotheby’s in New York. It’s expected to bring as much as one million, two-hundred thousand dollars.
